FRACTI

TUESDAY, MAY 1, 1866

We publish on our first page this morning address "To the people of Kentucky," ed by a large number of the most prom and influential citizene of the State, calling er the Thirtieth of May Mass Convention. forth the true basis upon which all true nen in the State should stand in the present ritical hour in our country's history. The me is brief between now and the 30th inst., and we would arge the friends of the Address oughout the State to be up and doing that the Convention may be a grand representation of the masses of Kentucky. Let them prepare o hold primary meetings in every county to oint delegates to the Convention. No time an now be spared or lost.

THE REASON WHY .- HOD. Alexander H. H. art, a member of Congress elect from Virinia and an Old-line Whig, asks a pertinen etion of the people of his District, as folwe: "Why, with all her advantages, has Virinia never been prosperous?" And he proceeds nse che has been almost exclusively an agriaral State, and has expended all the proof her crops in buying from the North a usand things that she should have made at e. All we receive from our tobacco, wheat, dother agricultural products has been exeded in the purchase of goods from other stee and countries, and we have thus always

What has been true of Virginia has been true ave all been hewers of wood and drawers of ater to the North. They have been substanially overeeers for Northern manufacturers, orters, and capitalists. They have produced great elements of wealth, but, instead of propriating them to their own benefit, they ave magnanimously and chivalrously sent tem all off for the enrichment and advancent in population and power of the shrewd, clous Yankee, who has by turns taughed at and abused them for their stupidity, pocketing, in the mean while, the profits!

Mr. Stuart is certainly late in making his sen for the last fifteen years or more trying to bick skulls of Southern politicians. We have monstrated to them over and over again the ous consequences to the South of the course were pursuing. We have told them they impoverishing the South and enriching e North by their opposition to home manu ures and their prolonged and intense efforts oncentrate and fix public opinion in the upon political topics to the exclusion est economic questions, upon which in realher prosperity, her power, and her rights nded. And we have been heartily abused our efforts in behalf of Southern wealth ndependence—in the only sense in which condence was ever possible or decirable he political blind guides who never saw an th beyond the ends of their noses! The adatee of Southern industrial -independence we been denonneed as secret eaemies, as hing to fill the Southern States with a manring popul ion, that must be-so ran the lant logic of secession and poverty-an ab !population; and thue the best and the only al triends of the South were put down by the sey political Don Quixotes of the abrasion home as possible and buy as much as possifrom abroad, as foes! Fierce represent es in Congress from the South delivered fiery ches upon State rights. Cross-roads poli ms, sitting upon the heads of whisky rele manufactured in Ohio, shouted State ghts and lampooned in execrable English E Yankees that made both the whisky and arrels. The ward meeting for the election delegates to the Democratic Southern Rights ation took up the refrain of State Righte! e village newspaper, not to be outdone in lly, patriotism, and plnck, re-schoed State hte! Thus there was a grand diapason from ots. State Rights were on the brain, in the isky, in the caucus, in the Legislature, in the ing, ubiquitous and almost omnipotion of anything clee? Public opinion was imost completely absorbed upon rights, inding the right to be kept poor, and to be ghed at and jeered by the rich nabobs of the th, against whom and their manufactures thie lava of Southern indignation was thrown , to what end has at length become appr at. Cultivating cotton by the million of ales, the Southern people sent to New Engor cotton to make their shirts of. With ties for raising millions of sheep, they mt to the same section for cloth for their ats and pants. With skins and hides innnsle, they bought their leather and shoes of achusetts, that sent Wilson and Sumner to cion. In a word, with a soil and cimate SAVINGS BANKS .- "That the welfare of inividuals and communities," eays the Cincin nali Commercial, "is promoted in proportion to the thrift, economy, and wise husbandry of means exercised by them, is a fact apparent upon the slightest consideration. He that pends more than his income becomes a prey to dependence and debt; he that spends all hi ncome has no provision for the future, and i always in danger of distress; but he that spends less than he earns, and wisely saves and investi he surplus, is on a high road to happiness and

"Small savings are too commonly overlooked and rejected, simply because they are small, But in the economy of the wise man, as in na ture, nothing, however small, is insignificant. er can afford to be wasted. The maxims of the sagacions Franklin—'A small leak will sink a great ship; 'Many a little makes a meikle; A pin a day is a groat a year;' 'What maintains one vice will bring up two children, '&c-are the foundation of the philosophy of the Savings Bank-a most beneficent institution, of whose history, operations and advantages we pose to furnish a brief sketch.

'In England, where the operations of banks or savings have been more widely extended than in any other country, the Government exweises a limited control over these instilutions. This control is in the hands of the commission ers for the reduction of the national debt, and mbraces, first, the legalization of a savings bank at its first establishment, effected by a registration and the payment of a fec of one guinea; second, the administration of all funds savings banks transmitted to the commissioners for investment; and, third, the power requiring returns from each savings bank, explanatory of its financial position.

'The whole number of Savings Banks in the nited Kingdom was returned as follows in

The number of depositors in the 454 Savings sanks of England was, in the same year

"The total amount owing to depositors wa £87,762,043, or nearly two hundred millions of dollars. The average rate of interest paid to der ocitors was only £2 19s 2d in the £100 ofie under three per cent per annum. The total annual expenses of management of the panks is set down at £137,632, or at the average rate of 6s 8d on each £100 of capilal invested being at the rate of one-third of one per cent. "The transactions of the British Association or the promotion of social science, from which we derive these statistics, state that the first savings bank was catablished at Edinburgh is 18'9. The example was rapidly followed. In 1×13, the well-known Scotch banking-house o Sir Wm. Forbes started a savings bank at Edinburgh, paying four per cent. interest to depositore, and when the deposits reached £50, ex-changing them for interest notes of his bank. in three years he had received $8 300 ln this way, from about 1,800 depositors. A little later, in 1817, the number of these banks became so large that Parliament began to legelate for their regulation. By existing laws the trustees or local managers appoint the flicers, who are required to give bond for the faithful discharge of their trust to the National Debt Commissioners. All moneys deposited, above a certain amount, are t e paid into the Bank of England, to the credit of these Commissioners, who are required to invest them in bank annuities or xchequer bills. The average rate of interest aid by the Commissioners to the banks is 33 per cent. A notice of one to three weeks is mmonly required for the withdrawal of do ocits. Of the 620 banks for savings there depositors are persons depositing small snms, ander £12, or 60 each. "The Scotch, as is well known, have a genlus for banking, as well as saving, and it is to tha canny' nation that we owe the establishment of those useful institutious—the penny savings banks. One of the first of these was started by the late Dr. Chalmers, at Edinburgh. It had The Mutual Life Insurance Co been observed that the existing savings banks did not embrace in their operation the bulk of the working classes. The penny banks receive eposits as low as ld, and are considered as eeders to the larger savings banks. When a epositor's balance reaches £1, it is transferred the national security savings bank. The Glasgow Jenny savings-bank has some thirty agencies, located in the suburbs of the city and in small towns in the vicinity. These cles are formed for the benefit of the working classes by benevolent gentiemen in the ocality joining together and acting as a committee of superintendence of the branch. This committee give a special guarantee to the Cenral Bank, in Glasgow, that they will make good to depositors all moneys with which the branch agent or "actuary" may be intrusted to lose has ever been sustained from these cies, though some have been established

LETTER FROM HUN. W. L. CONKLIN

LITCHPIFED KY., April 28, 1866. the Editors of the Liniari'le Journal:

To the Editors of the Duisni's Journal:

In your paper of the 21st instant, I see my name to a cell for a mass meeting, proposed to convene in the city of Lousville on the 3sta day of May next.

I approve of the meeting if the object is to units in an effort to expange this unit lary code that is being engrated in times of peace into our civil posicy, and try to receivable the ancient land misries and conventure, which have almost been obliterated within the last few years by that subterfuge, "military necessity." I also approve of an indorsement of the President in his statesmanlike conrect in opposition to the dominant party in Congress, as evinced by his velo messages, and hope Kenlucky will support and sustain him lu every effort he may make be preserve and maintain the Constitution d civil laws.

I have not eigued my name to the call for th I have not signed my name to the cas for the mass meeting, nor authorized it to be signed I should not trouble you with this communica-tion but for one paragraph in the call for the mass meeting—if not condemning, disparaging political neetings—one of which in my cannot I had participated in—the two showing an inensistency in my action. I can see nothing in-impatible in a political and a mass meeting ompatible in a possessor of may be project.

Please give this a place in your paper.

Your ob't servant.

W. S. CONKLIN.

The name of Mr. Conki'n was signed to the ddress for the 30th of May Convention upon e ground that his name appeared in the proedings of a meeting at Litchfield, about the lose of March. which appointed delegates to ne proposed 7th of May Mass Meeting in this ily, the cali for which was subsequently withawn on account of the call for the 30th of May. Ail the other names signed to the Ada were put there by their own authority, and Mr. Conklin's was just added to it upon The ground we have stated. We understand that Mr. Conklin will adhere to the Courier's Convention of to-day, a fact which we regard with eurprise and regret.

AFTERNOON DINPATCHES.

To the Amounted Press. The Tribune cays of the plan for reconstruagreed upon by the committee: The entition of pro-rebels over the inability t its conditions, and the whole of them.

The Herald sup the plan is ingentonely contrived. It is or derably milder than anything heretofore entire the policy and views of President Johnson. R may be unnecessary in some things, experiments in others, and unfair in the continued exclusion of the Southern States, after having on their part infiflied the conditions of the administration charged with discretionary rowers over the whole anhiest. But we have the administration charged with discretionary powers over the whole analyse. But we have only now to await the issue before the houses. The Times says: The scheme would seem sweeping enough to satisfy the most exacting radical. It could hardly be much more sweeping, indeed, unless it provided for wholesale confiscation and exterminate in or baut benefit of the Southern people. As a pian of pacification and reconstruction, the whole thing is worse than a buriesque—it might be styled a farce, were the country not in the midst of a very serious draws. Its proper designation would be a plan to prolong indefinitely the exclusion of the 8-mth, and oppress by imposing conditions to which the South never will submit.

conditions to which the South never will submit.

The World says the purposes of the scheme would not have been more apparent had it been labeled by even an infallible plan for preventing the South from voting in the next Presidential election. So transparent is its intent that it fails entirely in respect to its secondary object of putting the onus of exclusion on the South itself. It is not an honest proposition; it is not offered with any expectation of its acceptance, but with a deliberate design that it shall be rejected.

The Tribune's special says: After four months of the most searching investigation and dispassionate discussion among the members in Congress, it is believed the plan will meet the entire saaction of all shades of opinion and sentiment. Thus far no man among the Union

What could be more unjust than that old way of dealing with such gentlemen, when not unly all the money show had stolen was taken from them, out they were mercitessly shut up in prison, just as if they had not suffered mough already in their exposure and labor by ungliss in breaking open banks?

We have been told that not a few robberles is the large cities take place, which are never heard of by the public. The robbers are privately settled with. The direct tendency is to cultivate both a taient and a taste for the art of rubbling. It may, therefore, be reasonably expected that our robbers of banks and safes will soon rival those of London.—Providence Journal.

Age the Negrous Frage?—This question may well be asked, in the light of the acts and practices of the Freedmen's Bureau, as we gather them from respectable Southern journals. It eems from the operations of the agents of this Bureau, that they have assumed the ownership of the negrots of the South, and trade them off for a cranideration—using, or rather abusing, the milliary power of the Government to force them to a compliance with their demands. It eems to have grawn into a regular sweem that there is considered many their deficiently between the freedman and his employer, and here, under the plea that the former has voluted his contract, and here the seen has a contract to furnish, where the seen has a contract to furnish, where the seen has a contract to furnish still ultated number of hands at a fixed pive.

The A guests (Ga.) Chronicle de 's es that there is contract to furnish their fruits of the point of the bay of —ear them from their families and do as citations—as d nacks contract to result them to some distant tield of labor. The same rather some distant tield of labor.

to work when they please, and where they please. It continues:

By a law of the State, their status, as freemen, has been recommended, and the right to suc and he sued, to plead and be impleaded, to o had and convey property, to make contracts, to unarry, to inherit, and to will property, to testify in the courts, and to do all other things necessary for their protection as freemen, have been conferred upon them. Protection by law has been given to the same extent as to white people, in the erjoyment of parson and property, and they are liable to the same event for infractions of the law; tried by the same course, under the same code, before the same jories, and subjected to the same unablanests as whites are. This we have done, and not prudgingly.

With this slate of facts, who are the friends of the negre? Who are the slave traders now—the people of the South, or the Northern representative of the "great party of human freedom?—Missouri Republican
